

TRAINING

» ENAV is the only company in Italy authorised to select, train and update the various professional profiles operating in civilian Air Traffic Management, i.e. air traffic controllers, FIS personnel, meteorologists and flight inspection pilots.

The focus on training and professional development has enabled ENAV to achieve top level results among the international service providers for the amount and quality of the service provided.

Training and continual professional development activities are conducted through the Training Centre, which is a centre for aeronautical culture at an international level that provides a top level specialised training service, responding to national and international didactic standards and technical regulations in the sector.

The training provided by the Centre is aimed at professional figures closely related to Air Traffic Management and for people working in various areas of the aeronautical sector, requiring specific training courses in flight navigation (e.g. airline companies, airport management companies, air traffic management services, aeronautical industries and government bodies in the air transport sector).
